

COURSE OVERVIEW

The SARS outbreak in 2003 was a trying time for businesses which were not prepared, but it has taught us a valuable lesson. Since then, we have learnt to be better prepared to brace other pandemic outbreaks such as the Influenza H1N1, H1N5, MERS and now most reminiscent of the 2003 outbreak—the Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19). We may not be able to predict when the next Pandemic will happen, until it happens. What we can do is to ensure that we have a plan in place to prepare for sudden situations. Understand the possible business strategies that you can implement to ensure the safety of your workforce and the survival of your business. With a focus on people contingency – can we develop a plan with reference to the Ministry of Health and Enterprise Singapore Pandemic Guidelines? Find out the answer in this workshop!

COURSE OBJECTIVES

At the end of this course, you will be able to:

- ⇒ To understand the purpose of preparing for people contingency
- ⇒ To obtain an overview of the guidelines by both Enterprise Singapore and MOH
- ⇒ To develop a plan that addresses the Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19) and future unknowns while meeting your business needs
